15.1 Antenatal Care

Assessment	Nursing Diagnosis	Plan / Expected Outcome	Nursing Interventions	Evaluation
Subjective • "This is my first pregnancy; I do not know what is normal." Objective • First pregnancy, 12 weeks • Cannot name any danger signs • First antenatal visit today	ACTUAL Deficient knowledge related to first pregnancy as evidenced by questions and inability to state danger signs.	By her next visit, she can name at least five danger signs and her visit schedule.	• Explain when her antenatal visits are and which tests she will have. • Teach the danger signs: vaginal bleeding, severe headache, blurred vision, swollen face and hands, baby moving less, leaking fluid, fever. • Teach about nutrition, and folic acid and iron supplements as prescribed. • She should avoid smoking, alcohol and any drug that has not been prescribed.	Names the danger signs and her schedule: goal met.
Subjective • "I feel sick every morning." Objective • Vomits once a day • Weight steady • Not dehydrated	ACTUAL Nausea related to hormonal changes of early pregnancy as evidenced by morning nausea and vomiting.	Says the nausea is less and keeps eating and drinking.	• Suggest small, dry meals often, and a few crackers before getting up. • She should avoid fatty food and food with strong smells. • Tell her to come in if the vomiting stops her keeping fluids down.	Nausea manageable: goal met.
Subjective • No specific complaint Objective • Hb 10 g/dL • Missed her last visits	RISK Risk for disturbed maternal-fetal dyad as evidenced by risk factors: anemia and inadequate antenatal care.	Attends her scheduled visits and Hb goes up.	• Give iron as prescribed and teach her how to take it properly. • Set up reminders for her visits. • Check the baby's growth at every visit.	Coming to visits, Hb improving: goal met.
